LAST ISSUE'S PUZZLE

THEATER/FESTIVALS

16. Go to The Exponential Festival

A fringe experience.

Various locations, through February 3.

The deep fringe of New York theater-making gets its Brooklyn showcase in this far-flung festival, which contains radical dance double bills at Parallel, a vital smorgasbord evening (on the 25th), an immersive choose-your-own-adventure show in an actual (and secret) box store, a noir-sci-fi thriller at the Doxsee Theater in Sunset Park, and a solemn solo piece by Kareem Lucas, in which he stages his own funeral at the Brick. If you've ever felt the wild pioneering days of the theater scene were over, these impassioned, experimental artists will make you clutch your pearls again.

TV

17. Watch BoJack Horseman

No more horsin' around.

Netflix, January 31.

This biting Hollywood satire that has followed a former '90s-sitcom star for six seasons is coming to a close. Will BoJack, voiced by Will Arnett, finally find some peace? It's unclear, but we know we will miss this Easter-egg-heavy, brilliant series.
